

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Systems and methods for detecting defects in a test specimen. The method generally includes applying a liquid detection medium to the test specimen and exciting the test specimen to cause the liquid detection medium to produce a defect signature for a defect in the test specimen. The liquid detection medium is monitored for defect signatures produced by the liquid detection medium.

5